World Powers Are Seeking Means For Summit Meeting

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
GENEVA (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union put heat on each other today to come up with Big Four conference concessions which could pave the way for a summer summit meeting.

The Soviet pressure came from Moscow here Premier Nikita Khrushchev was reported to have warned the West German ambassador that he would sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if there was no agreement at the Geneva foreign ministers meeting.

This threat, made to Ambassador Hans Kroll in a private talk Thursday, was being examined by Western delegations for its possible significance in relation to the conference. Diplomats noted Khrushchev did not specify what agreement he has in mind, and they believe enough agreement will be reached to assure a summit parley.

Demand Red Action
From the American side the pressure on the Soviets came in the form of a statement saying that after two weeks of argument the time has come for Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to produce proposals on German unification, the Berlin crisis and European security "which the Western powers will be glad to examine."

The statement, issued Friday night by Asst. Secretary of State Andrew H. Berding, in effect urged Gromyko to contact Moscow during the weekend Big Four recess and get authority to modify his position in the conference.

Both the Soviet and American actions appeared to be maneuvers to force a break in the present stalemated debate and come to grips with the Berlin problem. This is one issue about which some action will have to be taken here if Western terms for a summit meeting are to be met.

AVERT LOSS OF FISHING AT 4 RESERVOIRS

The loss of public fishing privileges on Chambersburg, Waynesboro and two other water supply reservoirs in southcentral Pennsylvania as a result of littering and other practices by unthinking fishermen was averted for the time being through agreements which place the management and control of the areas under the jurisdiction of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

The agreements involve Koon and Gordon Lakes in Bedford County, owned by the Everts Creek Water Co., and the Waynesboro and Chambersburg boroughs' reservoirs in Adams County.

Harold Corbin, regional warden supervisor, said, "We do not intend to take lightly the responsibility placed upon us by these agreements. Previously, because of certain provisions in the fish code, the authority of our wardens on these waters and surrounding lands was limited."

Corbin promised enforcement "to the letter" of regulations which include, in effect, the following:

1. All fishing to comply with state rules and regulations.
2. Pollution of the waters or watershed is prohibited.
3. Littering the area with any type of debris, rubbish or trash is prohibited.
4. Overnight camping or bathing is prohibited.
5. Abandoning open fires is prohibited. (Koon and Gordon Lakes) Open fires are prohibited (Waynesboro and Chambersburg reservoirs).
6. Use of boats, rafts or floats is prohibited.
7. Fishing from dam breasts or causeways is prohibited. Fishing from dam breast permitted at Chambersburg reservoir.

FATHER, SON WORK ON PLEA TO SAVE LIFE

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Charles Starkweather, confessed slayer of 11 persons who has seen an execution date come and go three times, worked with his father, Guy, today to perfect an appeal to the federal courts.

Lean and intense Guy Starkweather saved his 20-year-old son from death Friday through midnight and early morning calls to two federal judges after failing to get another federal judge to halt the scheduled dawn execution.

Now, said Guy, he hopes to get an attorney to aid him.

Hand-written Appeal

Charles spent a worried night after his father had taken his son's hand-written appeal for a stay to Judge Robert Van Pelt of Lincoln and the judge had rejected the plea.

It was the contention of Charles that he was not properly represented at his trial when convicted for slaying Robert Jensen, Bennett, Neb., school boy.

The father indicated he was ready to give up after Judge Van Pelt made his ruling late Thursday. He said "I don't see that I could have done anything more."

But at midnight he began again. Charles has until June 4 to make his appeal.

SENATE WHEAT BILL GOES TO HOUSE MONDAY

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate wheat bill, capped by a surprise $35,000 ceiling on government price supports to any one farm or farmer, goes to the House Monday. Its fate there is uncertain.

The stopgap legislation dealing with the nation's big wheat surplus was hammered out Friday in more than eight hours of Senate floor debate and voting.

Unless the Senate and House agree on a bill and President Eisenhower signs it before June 1, the present law probably must continue. The House has been working on its own wheat bill.

Benson Approved

Even before the Senate approved its wheat program for the next two years, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson formally announced he "recommends against enactment."

Benson contended that it would not reduce production and probably would add to the costs of a program that has taken several billion dollars in recent years.

Most senators agreed that something must be done about billions of bushels of surplus wheat piled up largely in government hands.

Agreement May Be Different

But agreeing on a solution was a different matter. The first Senate decision was approval of the $35,000 ceiling on crop supports for any farmer.

Under the farm support loans, the producer turns the crop over to the government unless he can make a profit by paying back the loans and selling on the market.

As the bill went to the House it retained the present $5-million-acre base wheat allotment and gave farmers three choices:

Have Three Choices

They could plant their present allotments and get a support of 65 per cent of parity or about $1.52 a bushel.

They could reduce 20 per cent below allotments and get a support of 80 per cent of parity or about $1.89.

Or they could reduce 10 per cent in plantings and receive 75 per cent of parity, about $1.78 a bushel.

Official Count To Finish Monday

"GOD'S WILL"

There is a God and I believe... that He is always near... charting our journey... tempering our fear... for each of us He makes a path... some bad and others good... each road is part of His great plan... so seldom understood... God knows our every movement... He counts our smiles and tears... each of us serves a purpose... as we go through the years... oftentimes we doubt His reason... for grief is hard to bear... but all of us must realize... that each will have a share... and so we must proceed with faith... we live from day to day... governed by the hand of God... Whose will we must obey.

World Powers

Khrushchev's apparent eagerness to get to the summit is about the only effective bargaining weapon the West has in negotiating to ease the Berlin situation.

Khrushchev's separate peace treaty threat is the same weapon turned around. It is a way of saying that unless the West agrees to a summit session the Soviets will go through with their plan to treat East Germany as a sovereign state with control over Allied supply lines to West Berlin. That could produce an extremely dangerous situation which the Western powers are anxious to avoid.

The conference ended its second full week in exactly the same deadlock in which it finished the first with Gromyko insisting that a German settlement must begin with a peace treaty and the Western ministers arguing that reunification must come first.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

TEN YEARS AGO

Receptacles Are Placed By Acorn Club: Gettysburg's oldest service group, the Acorn Club, has placed four large metal containers for waste paper and other debris on Center square with the hope of given the center of the town a cleaner appearance.

Placing of the containers marks the culmination of a program begun a number of years ago by the club when it determined to do something about the trash and litter that frequently mars the appearance of the center of the borough. The war and priorities on steel prevented purchase of containers sturdy enough for the job until the present time.

The 16 members of the almost 30-year-old organization (it will celebrate its anniversary in September) are noted for a number of civic activities starting with the organization of the Y.W.C.A. The club's first project was to sell bricks for the then to be formed Y.W.C.A.

Later the organization devoted much of its activity to aiding the hospital through benefit activities.

Places 2nd In State Contest: Lois Jane Warren, Biglerville high school senior, who won first place in the county Elks' essay contest, has been awarded second place in the state-wide Elks' essay contest, it was announced today.

Folkenroth will conduct the census in the first ward of Gettysburg, Miles Dearthoff will conduct the listing in Freedom township, Mrs. Mary Trout in Cumberland township; Mrs. Rufus Milhines in Straban township; Arthur J. Roth, Third Ward; and Miss Barbara Ziegler, Springs Avenue, Second Ward.

Helps NCA Lay Cornerstone: J. P. Hollabaugh, of the C. H. Musselman company, Biglerville, participated today in ceremonies at the cornerstone laying for the new million-dollar research center at Washington D. C.

The center will house the eastern laboratories of the 42-year-old National Canners Association.

Mrs. C. L. Evans New Community Club President: Mrs. Clayton L. Evans was elected president of the Woman's Community club of Littlestown, succeeding Mrs. Charles W. Weikert, at the annual election at the May meeting of the club Wednesday evening in the P.O.S. of A. hall. Other officers elected were: first vice president, Mrs. Marvin Breighner; second vice president, Miss Rose V. THAT INNER JOY

William James said of Wordsworth that "that inner life of his carried the burden of a significance that has fed the souls of others, and fills them to this day with inner joy." It is a wonderful thing to start living deep within the secret heart of another human being. Would that it might become a universal fact! That would mean the death of all war — and a new earth.

Whitman is another whose life radiated an inward joy, and who scattered that joy far and wide. Phillips Brooks, the great Boston preacher, was one, as well as scores of others from whom we have been guided to higher spiritual heights.

In nature there is displayed an abundance of beauty, hidden miracles, and lessons that men have learned, and which have inspired all of man's art and ingenuity. Nature is rich in ideas that have prompted the efforts of the alert and filled the ranks of the curious and those of an undying faith. There are truths in stones, in singing rivers and in every moving creature of this earth.

Who can fathom the silent language of man's best friend — the dog? How obedient, faithful and understanding is this creature, with more intelligence in its wagging tail than in the vacant brain of many a man!

Take the example of a bee, an ant, or a spider — these three. Each is an artist in its own right. Perhaps even in these small workers there may be a secret joy. Man has been so busy clinging to money that many of life's wonders are thoughtlessly dismissed — but not by John Burroughs, Edwin Way Teale or Fabre.

Just Folks

THE SCHEME OF LIFE
To laugh when a laugh would be cheering.
To comfort when comfort is sought.
To refrain from the habit of sneering;
In a word, to do just what we ought.
To treat others the way we'd be treated.
Ah, this is the task is ours.
If we fail, then God's plan is defeated.
We've wasted the best of our powers.

Not to laugh when a brother is crying,
Nor frown when a neighbor may smile,
To encourage when some one is trying—
Yes, this is the duty worth while.
To be kind and to be sympathetic,
To be brave in the heat of the strife
And never to grow apathetic—
In a word, live a well-balanced life.

Labor Agitation Blamed On Reds

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Friday denounced extremist labor agitation for wage raises and hinted that the Communists are behind it. The revolutionary leader threatened to slap on price and wage controls if pay increases granted by his government result in rises, without government approval, in the cost of essential goods.

He suggested that some labor leaders were conspiring with businessmen to set off a wage-price spiral.

A Bit Of History About The Frederick Forster Murder

By B. F. M. MacPHERSON

B. F. M. MACPHERSON

Frederick Smith, Suicide

The account of the trial of Frederick Smith for the murder of Frederick Forster on November 23, 1848, is continued at this time. The trial was held in the old court house located in the center of what is now Lincoln Square and the jail, where the prisoner was held, was in the basement of the same building.

20. Mrs. Rebecca Lomax, the twentieth witness for the state. Mrs. Lomax lived in part of the house occupied by Frederick Smith and his wife at Reading, Pennsylvania. She (Mrs. Lomax) testified as follows:—"I live at Reading, Pennsylvania. Frederick Smith, the prisoner, and his wife lived in the same house. Frederick Smith left home Friday, November 21, 1848, two days before the murder and returned Sunday, November 26, 1848, three days after the murder of Mr. Forster. Smith and his wife brought me the deed to Frederick Forster's property to read because they could not read English and wanted to know what it was."

Made Vest For Forster
21. Polly Bluebaugh, the twenty-first witness to testify—"I made a vest for Mr. Forster to sell. He could not sell it so he bought it himself and wore it. This vest was found lying on a chair in his house after the murder."

After the murder of Frederick Forster the murderer was seen by no one until about five o'clock the following morning when he came tumbling against the door of Emmanuel Chronister, who lived three-fourths of a mile east of the village of Hampton toward East Berlin. Smith at that time had the sore hand received in the death struggle with Forster and the bundle of stolen goods. In addition he was haunted by the bloody deed he had committed because of sheer greed on his part. Smith took a little breakfast at Chronister's and told the family he was a peddler—to account for the bag of goods. He left, however, without attempting to make a sale—rather a queer proceeding for a peddler.

Bloody Tailor's Goose
While Smith was lodged in the Adams County Jail, Abraham Arnold, a merchant of Gettysburg, visited him. During his talk with the prisoner Mr. Arnold mentioned the bloody tailor's goose. Said the murderer calmly "I will tell you how that was. The goose was lying on the floor and I think it must have got bloody there as Forster was crawling about on his hands and knees before he was dead."

On Friday, August 21, 1849, all testimony having been given, all witnesses examined and cross-examined, Judge Durkee addressed the jury for three hours. They, the jury, adjourned at 11:30 a.m. and returned in three hours with a verdict—"guilty of murder in the first degree." The defense, conducted by the Hon. Daniel M. Smyser, Edward Buehler Esq. and William B. McClellan Esq. immediately made a motion for a new trial and reasons filed.

Court Session
On October 1, 1849, the "Compiler" published the following account of the sentencing of Frederick Smith—

"Sentence of Frederick Smith, the murderer of Frederick Forster—Tuesday last was the day fixed by the court for final decision upon the motion for a new trial in the case of the Commonwealth against Frederick Smith, convicted at the August court for the murder of Frederick Forster, near Arendtsville, this county, in November last. The prisoner was taken into court at nine o'clock in the morning exhibiting the same apparent indifference to the result which he manifested during the whole of his trial. His countenance wore its usual look of coldness and unconcern. The reasons presented for a new trial were over-ruled by the court. The prisoner was asked if he had anything to say and he replied, nothing. Judge Durkee then proceeded to address him (the prisoner) in the first place remarking upon the atrocious character of the crime and the circumstances connected with it—that he (Smith) entered the house of Forster, pretending to be his friend, and then ruthlessly murdered him simply to gain a little of the world's substance. His honor mentioned the ability his counsel displayed in his defense—they defended him without hope of fee or reward and performed their whole duty towards him.

Speaks In German
The prisoner, being a German, although he understood English to some extent, Judge Smyser briefly addressed him in his own language and advised him to send for the Rev. Benjamin Keller and the Rev. Dr. Samuel Schmucker who could converse with him in his own language.

"Judge Smyser also mentioned that he (Smith) was acquainted with Rev. Keller for he had visited him in jail and administered the communion."

"When Judge Smyser concluded, the prisoner was asked by the court whether he had anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be pronounced upon him. He answered, nothing. Judge Durkee, then proceeded to pronounce sentence upon him—

"Hanged By The Neck"
"The court adjudges and orders that you, Frederick Smith, be taken to the jail of Adams County from whence you came, and from thence to the place of execution, and that you there be hanged by the neck until you be dead. And may God have mercy upon your poor soul."

"The prisoner was taken back to prison." The same edition of the "Compiler" contained the story of the suicide of Frederick Smith—"Suicide of Smith—At 1:30 p.m., the news came out that Frederick Smith committed suicide. The facts connected with this melancholy affair are furnished us by Deputy Sheriff E. W. Stahle, and are herewith given—

"At six o'clock in the morning I entered the prisoner's cell, as usual, for the purpose of unlocking him from the chain that kept him to the floor during the night. I found him in his usual calm and collected state of mind. I had some conversation with him, examined his irons, found all right and left him. Half an hour later I took him his breakfast."

"A Changed Man"
"I then left the jail for an hour to attend to other business. On my return, in going up the stairs, I heard the voice of Dr. Schmucker, who had visited Smith at the request of Rev. Keller, engaged in prayer with Smith. I did not disturb them. In a short time Dr. Schmucker left and went with me into the yard. Later, when I went to Smith's cell, to renovate it, he appeared to be a changed man—much impressed with the instruction he had just received. I left at about 9:15 a.m., and went to the court house. That was the last time I saw Smith alive. At about ten o'clock or after the Sheriff heard Smith stirring in his room, which was the last ever heard of him. At 1:30 p.m., I came to the jail and found that Smith's dinner had not been served so I got it and went to his room. Upon unlocking the door, I at first discovered his bed upturned and in disorder. I turned facing the north wall—and discovered Smith hanging against the wall. I went to him and found him to be dead so I left him in the same position until the Coroner should arrive. The coroner not being in town, I called Dr. David Horner and his son, Robert, to come and see the body. They pronounced him dead and said he had been dead for at least two hours. The body was then let down and placed upon the bed. The coroner soon arrived and summoned a jury to investigate the matter—which was done—and the verdict that the deceased came to his death by hanging himself in the Common Jail of the county was rendered."

MAN KILLS HIS WIFE, SUICIDES; LOVE TRIANGLE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Police say a bank employee, incensed by the knowledge his wife had a lover, shot her to death and then killed himself.

"I had intended to kill him (the wife's lover) too, but after thinking it over, his punishment shall be living with his guilt."

A baby-sitter found the bodies of Bill Whitaker, 32, and his wife Arline, 28, in their suburban Van Nuys home Friday.

The couple's two children, aged 2½ and 11 months, were found unharmed in a locked bedroom.

The note told this story: Last Friday, Mrs. Whitaker told her husband she had fallen in love with another man, one of the superiors at the bank where she worked nights. She had intended to move into another apartment Sunday.

Until the other man "started romancing my wife," Whitaker said in the note, "she was the most sweet and loving and wonderful person that ever walked the face of this earth. Therefore I feel the blame shall be his."

"I have broken the Fifth Commandment (Thou shalt not kill) because he broke the Ninth Commandment (Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife)."

"Some people will say I was insane and maybe I am. But I just reached the point of no return. God put the jealous nature in us and I ask His forgiveness at this time for using it as I have."

of James A. Thompson, David Kendlehart, Daniel Lashells, George Swope, Samuel R. Russell, Robert Martin, Solomon Powers, Jacob Troxel, George Little, Samuel Fahnestock, John Little, and Henry Saltzger."

Frederick Smith hung himself on September 27, 1849, thus relieving Sheriff Fickes of a disagreeable duty. According to a fairly reliable tradition Smith was buried that same day, with little or no ceremony, in the old Alms-house meadow near Rock Creek. It is thought that the body of the unfortunate man was later exhumed and sent to one of the Medical Schools at Philadelphia, by two characters of the town (Gettysburg).

This concludes the notes on the murder of Frederick Forster.

The historical and genealogical study of Black's Graveyard (Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian), located in Cumberland Township, this county, a short distance west of the Mummastown Rd., is continuing at this time.

Next on the list of marked graves in this plot is the burial place of the Hosack family. This is a single stone, which contains the following inscription:—

"In memory of John Hosack who departed this life February 19, 1789 in the 56th year of his life."

John Hosack was an early settler, according to the records in the state land office, in the Manor of the Masque. He came to this country from the North of Ireland.

These notes will be continued next week.

STUDENTS IN RUSSIA

Year of Exchange Experiment Ends Soon
Americans in Moscow Would Do It Again

By JIM DAN HILL, Ph.D.

President, Wisconsin State College Superior

COME JUNE EXAMS next, seventeen Russian graduate students in America will loaf while classmates scribble.

Likewise twenty-one United States graduate students in Russian universities will relax while Soviet doctoral candidates perspire.

That no student in the Exchange program be required to become a degree candidate on either side of the Atlantic was a part of the original deal last September with Russia.

THE RUSSIAN students are scattered among the universities of California (Berkeley campus), Washington, Chicago, Columbia and Harvard.

The Americans are getting a more narrow collective experience. Fifteen are in the University of Moscow. The remaining six are enrolled in Leningrad University.

THESE TWO SOVIET universities are the apex of the Russian pyramid of learning.

Nevertheless, Moscow University is a hundred thirty years younger than Harvard, having been founded in 1755. Leningrad University is an infant according to European standards. It opened its doors in 1919.

There are but 30 other universities, most of which became Soviet through Russian imperialist annexations such as the ancient Polish University of Vilna (1578) and Estonia's Dorpat University (1632), which was fundamentally German until its Russianification to become known today as Tartu University.

UNDER THE COMMUNIST dictators there has been little enthusiasm for creating new universities. The term suggests too much independence of thought.

But knowledge for the people was essential if the Communists' ambitious succession of Five Year Plans was to succeed. Thus the Reds founded "institutes" and "technical schools" with a lavish hand. There are now 775 of these. Some are restricted to vocational skills. But many offer courses that extend at least through our junior college level. Some are de facto universities in States graduate students within that they include faculties of engineering, law and medicine.

Thus, by concentrating all United the two historic centers of Slavic learning, Americans are getting no first hand contact with mass higher education throughout the Soviet Empire.

But America is fortunate to get any students into Russia at any level. It took the weight of an adverse world opinion before America could get Russia to agree to any sort of student exchange.

THE RUSSIAN STUDENTS in America get $250 a month. Some report it is not enough; a normal student complaint in any language!

The Americans in Leningrad and Moscow get 1500 rubles a month, which exchanges into $150. The low cost of living, particularly at Leningrad University, and the twenty-five miles restriction upon travel appear to have precluded any fiscal crisis among the American students in Russia.

THE FULL STORY of the Americans in Leningrad and Moscow universities will not be known until they return.

Osgood Caruthers, for the New York Times, recently surveyed the situation from his post in Moscow. His report necessarily went through Red censors.

It is quite apparent the 15 in Moscow two of whom have their wives along, are faring better than those in Leningrad U.

IN MOSCOW they are billeted in a tall, beehive dormitory, two in a room along side Russian and other foreign students. The two wives are allowed to share one room each with their respective husbands on the same terms as other inmates.

Meals are at the university restaurant, but breakfasts and lunches are often improvised in their rooms over hot plates. By contrast, those in Leningrad U. report living four in a room, on the top floor of a six-story building that has no elevator. There is lack of heat and a scarcity of hot water in winter. The university food is poor and monotonous.

The thousand or more Chinese students enrolled in Leningrad U. are in a social boycott of the Americans. Students from other Soviet satellites, particularly the Poles, are friendly.

ACADEMICALLY, there appears to be a mutual respect between the American students and their professors. They study hard and learn much, even though exempt from exams.

When the American graduate students in Moscow protested a university lobby display portraying American soldiers as murderous cannibals, it was promptly removed.

Sections of the library containing archives and books that could be used only by "mature scholars" were closed to them, and most likely to all others as well.

Everyone predicts that next year the program will run more smoothly in both countries, but the Americans now in Russia say they do not regret their decision.

Bermudian Tops Delone 7-2 To Finish Campaign With 15-1 Overall Mark

Bermudian Joint High School climaxed a tremendous baseball season by routing Delone 7-2 in the season's final Friday afternoon at York Springs.

Pete Kemper's Adams County League champions turned in a 15-1 overall record and the victory on Friday was particularly sweet inasmuch as Delone had handed Bermudian its lone setback 3-2 on April 8. The triumph enabled the winners to finish with a string of 11 successive victories.

The record was the best for the upper counties since 1940 when, as York Springs High School, they were undefeated.

Williams Homers

A homerun to centerfield by George Williams with Marlin Tate aboard via a single broke a scoreless tie for Bermudian in the last of the fourth inning.

Delone tied the count in the top of the fifth. Wagonman rapped the first of his two doubles. Rickie Bollinger also pounded a double to right and Butch Miller singled home Bollinger.

Bermudian iced the game in the fifth with five runs. Ronnie Spangler singled and Ralph Myers was safe on an error. Marlin Tate drew an intentional pass to load the bases. George Williams rapped a single to drive home Spangler. Bob Weigle cleaned the bases with a three-run double and later scored on Craig Hoke's one-base knock.

The game was also the final for Delone who finished with a 4-5 record.

Eastern League

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Williamsport Grays are putting on the steam in their effort to take over undisputed possession of first place in the Eastern League.

The Grays, tied with Allentown for the lead ran their winning streak to four games Friday night by edging York 8-7. A one-out double by Mack Burk in the ninth inning brought in Fred Van Dusen from second with the winning run.

Marco Mainini, third Williamsport pitcher, got credit for the win, his second against one loss.

Allentown's Red Sox, after losing two in a row to Springfield, staged a five-run seventh inning to defeat last place Albany 7-5.

Bob Lewis' bases-loaded double accounted for three runs in the big seventh. Ron Cote notched his win without a loss. Tom McNulty (1-2) was charged with the loss.

Wins 7th Straight

Lancaster won its seventh straight by turning back the Springfield Giants 6-2. Four of Lancaster's runs came in a five-hit third inning. Cliff Anderson won his second straight.

Juan Marchal (3-5) was the loser. Reading's Mike De La Hoz and Harry Messick got the Indians off to a good start with a pair of first-inning homers and Jerry Lis (3-2) turned in a six-hit pitching performance to defeat Binghamton 5-2.

The only consolation for the Triplets was Leroy Thomas' ninth homer of the season.

Dick Farrell Is Sent To Buffalo

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dick Farrell, of the Philadelphia Phillies, once rated among the National League's top relief pitchers, has been optioned to Buffalo of the International League on 24-hour recall.

The right-hander got off to a poor start this season. He appeared in 12 games and had a 1-3 record and an earned run average of 5.40.

Meanwhile, the Phillies, juggling players in efforts to escape the National League cellar, purchased right-hander Fernando Rodriguez from Buffalo on a conditional basis. He will report to the club immediately.

Rodriguez, a 39-year-old Cuban, appeared in 13 games for Buffalo and had a 1-1 record.

YANKES ARE REALLY UPSET, OFF, ON FIELD

BALTIMORE (AP)—The embattled New York Yankees are having troubles on and off the field since dropping into the American League cellar for the first time in 19 years.

Twice Friday they were involved in rhabarbs with news photographers. And on two other occasions umpires gave them a dressing down for their deportment.

A plastic helmet and a baseball came flying out of the Yankee dugout Friday night after starter Bob Turley was knocked out of the box in the first inning and photographers snapped his picture.

Earlier in the day the Yanks were reported to have brushed aside cameramen as they boarded a train in New York for the trip to Baltimore.

Manager Casey Stengel denied reports he intentionally snubbed the photographers in New York.

After the dugout incident, third base umpire Ed Runge waved a menacing finger at the bench but no one was banished.

"If I saw who did it I might have done something about it," Runge said after the game.

Just before Turley was knocked from the box during a four-run first-inning rally, he had a run-in with plate umpire Ed Hurley over a pitch to Oriole pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm.

"I didn't like the call (a ball) and I guess I showed it," Turley said. "But I never said anything to him."

But Turley thought the pitcher was trying to show him up before the big crowd of 29,084. "He might just as well have come in and kicked me as to have done what he did," Turley said. The umpire walked out and talked to Turley after the pitcher stalked off the mound.

Turley said he was told by the umpire: "You can say whatever you want and I'm not going to throw you out of the game. I'm going to let them knock you out."

RACE AGAINST TIME FOR 500

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Mechanics and drivers both fought a battle against time at the Indianapolis 500-mile trials today and Sunday were supposed to end qualifications for the 500-mile race May 30.

Time was running out for fixing serious mechanical ailments in several of the powerful but delicately constructed racers—namely Jimmy Bryan's 1958 winner, the Belond Special.

An oil pump sheared Friday in Bryan's car, which set a race record of 133.601 miles an hour two years ago with Sam Hanks at the wheel.

There was a chance that the trials might be rained out, or the running time reduced to the point where additional qualifications would be held early next week.

With 14 cars already qualified last weekend, 19 positions remained open in the starting field. There were 45 unqualified cars at the speedway.

Reading, turned in an eight-under-par 63 to lead 16 teams into the final round of the sixth annual tournament. It took a score of 72 or under for teams to qualify.

On Friday Dr. Donald Wickerham, Gettysburg, teamed with Dr. John Mohr, Corry, for a 74 on 36-38. Tom Cline and Ken Wenk, both of the local club, shot a 38-40-73 while Dr. Robert Lefever and George Boehner turned in a 41-42-83.

HOYT WILHELM BLANKS YANKS ON ONE HITTER

By ED WILKS

Associated Press Sports Writer
National League clubs brushed off Hoyt Wilhelm because they could tell when he was going to throw his money pitch, the knuckler. Now he holds the ball in his glove and American League hitters in the palm of his hand.

Once a bullpen wonder for the Giants in the National League, Wilhelm drifted to the Cardinals and then into the American League with Cleveland before coming to roost with Baltimore. It was Oriole Manager Paul Richards who suggested he hide the ball in his glove.

Now the 35-year-old right-hander has become such a mystery to hitters that he's unbeaten, and even had switch-hitting Mickey Mantle resorting to a rare tactic Friday night. The Mick didn't switch—and he didn't hit, either.

Almost A No-hitter
Fact is, Wilhelm came within six outs of becoming the first pitcher ever to no-hit the New York Yankees twice, then settled for a one-hitter while packing away his sixth victory as Baltimore belted the champs deeper into the cellar 5-0.

By winning their fifth straight over the Yankees, the third place Orioles stayed within 2½ games of the first place Cleveland Indians, who managed just two hits but beat Detroit 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Gary Bell. The second place Chicago White Sox, a half-game back, defeated Kansas City 2-1. Boston beat Washington 4-3.

Turley Is Chased
Wilhelm walked six and struck out two, losing his no-hitter on Jerry Lumpe's leadoff single—off a knuckler—in the eighth.

The Orioles chased Bob Turley (3-5) with four runs in the first on five consecutive hits and a bases-loaded walk to Wilhelm—all with two out.

The Indians got both their hits off starter Paul Foytack (1-6) in the seventh inning, scoring on Vic Power's double and Minnie Minoski's two-out two-bagger. Ray Naleski pitched a hitless final inning for the Tigers.

Luis Aparicio led off with a single, stole second and scored on Nellie Fox's single in the first inning for the White Sox, then doubled and scored the clincher on an error in the third against Bob Grim (4-4). The A's had just four hits off Bob Shaw (4-0), he gave up a run in the sixth on Ray Boone's two-out single and Bob Cerv's double. Shaw gave way in the ninth, needing Turk Lown's relief and center fielder Jim Landis' diving catch of Dick Williams' liner for the final out with the bases loaded.

Ted Williams brought in the tying run for Boston with a sacrifice fly in the fifth, then doubled and scored the winning runs on Frank Malzone's double in the seventh. Dick Gernert's homer scored the other two Red Sox runs over the second against Camilo Pascual (3-4). Ike Delock (5-1) won it despite Nat Homers by Reno Bertoia and Jim Lemon.

HIDDEN BALL IS WILHELM'S 'TOP SECRET'

BALTIMORE (AP)—"Sure I would have liked to pitch another no-hitter but you have to be lucky to get even one of those."

That was Hoyt Wilhelm's calm appraisal of Jerry Lumpe's lead-off single in the eighth inning Friday night which ruined his bid for a second no-hitter over the New York Yankees since joining the Baltimore Orioles last Aug. 23. The Orioles beat the cellar-dwelling world champions 5-0.

Lumpe, a left-handed batter, sliced a 1-1 pitch to left field as a crowd of 29,084 first groaned and then applauded for Wilhelm.

"He hit a knuckler ball," said Wilhelm. "I knew it as a hit right away. It was just one of those things," he shrugged. "I guess one no-hitter is enough for anybody."

The 35-year-old right-hander, who throws knuckler balls about 90 per cent of the time, said he used quite a few fast balls and sliders in the early innings. But in the final three innings he relied almost entirely on the dancing knuckler.

Wilhelm said he was advised by pitching coach Harry Brecheen after the sixth inning to slow down his pace. "I did and I had more control after that," said Wilhelm.

Strangely enough, from the time he joined the New York Giants in 1952 until last year, he didn't start a game in the majors.

Wilhelm credits Oriole Manager Paul Richards with making him more effective by getting him to hold the ball in his glove to prevent tipping his pitches.

Bankert Among Golf Qualifiers

Phil Bankert, ace New Oxford High School golfer, was one of 27 boys from an original entry list of 58 who qualified Friday for today's final round in the PIAA golf tournament at University Park.

Bankert placed third in the 36-hole test with a 72-74-146. Ron Reitz, Conrad Weiser, shot a one over par 139 to lead the first day play.

Today the 27 qualifiers will play a final round of 18 holes.

PLAN SHOOT SUNDAY

The Gettysburg Archers will hold a shoot on Sunday at the Gettysburg archery range on the Twin Hemlock Pheasant Farm. It will be a 28 hunter. Registration will be from 12:30 to 1:30. The shoot will start at 1:30. Trophies will be awarded the winners.

MITEFF BEATS WAYNE BETHEA

NEW YORK (AP)—Alex Miteff can jab, punch, move and box. The only trouble is he forgets to do it sometimes.

Like Friday night in his winning bout with Wayne Bethea at Madison Square Garden.

The 24-year-old heavyweight from Argentina started like a whiz. In the middle rounds he slowed down to a walk and plodded home, the winner on a unanimous decision.

"What happened to that jab you were using in the first round," a fellow asked.

"I just forgot about it," he tried to explain.

Miteff won easily on two cards (7-3 by Referee Ruby Goldstein and Judge Frank Forbes) but Judge Artie Aidala made it close 5-4-1. The AP card was 7-2-1.

BIG TEN VOTES 5-5 ON BID TO BOWL CLASSIC

By JERRY LISKA

Associated Press Sports Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—The Big Ten today was in a quandry over a two-headed Rose Bowl football monster it has created in a weird move.

From two 5-5 standoffs votes Friday came this strange setup:

First, the policy-making faculty representatives refused to renew the Rose Bowl contract which expires with the 1960 game after a 14-year span.

Then, proponents of the bowl dug out a joker from near the bottom of the conference legal deck and opened the way for free-for-all participation in the Rose Bowl by member schools on an individual basis.

The joker was a clause inserted in the conference handbook in 1946 which waived the league's ban on all athletic postseason competition for participation in the Rose Bowl.

The antibowl group of Ohio State, Illinois, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Minnesota succeeded in killing the proposal to renew the bowl contract because a 5-5 deadlock spikes any new legislation.

Open Invitation
But, in rebuttal, the pro-Rose Bowl group of Michigan, Iowa, Indiana, Purdue and Michigan State voted against eliminating the Rose Bowl proviso from the rule book.

The way things stand now, after the 1960 Rose Bowl game the newly organized Big Four West Coast group of California, Washington, Southern California and UCLA can invite any Big Ten school to the Pasadena classic. However, if a team like Ohio State or Illinois won the conference championship and was the logical team to be invited such a school would be put in an embarrassing position because of its expressed stand against the Rose Bowl.

Of course, the West Coast group, which is an offshoot of the Pacific Coast Conference destined to perish July 1, also could invite any other Eastern rival outside the Big Ten.

DRYSDALE WINS FIFTH IN ROW OVER GIANTS

By ED WILKS

It's been a long time coming, but Don Drysdale finally has nailed his fourth victory and the Los Angeles Dodgers at last are getting even with the San Francisco Giants.

The Dodgers grabbed second place in the National League from San Francisco as Drysdale, winless for almost a month, defeated the Giants 2-1 in 13 innings Friday night. It was the sixth victory over the Giants this season for the Dodgers—matching the total they managed in last year's 22-game series.

SHRINERS PRAISED BY GOVERNOR

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Gov. Lawrence Friday praised the Shriners for their charitable work.

He told a meeting here of a Shrine Luncheon Club:

"Your charity is as alive as the children whose lives you have saved."

"By these measures, surely, the worth of your organization and of your work is indelibly impressive."

Plugs For Budget

At the same time, he told them, in his prepared speech, that the need for such private philanthropy is increasing "if we are to keep our tax needs within sane bounds."

No Tax Lobbyists

Lawrence took the occasion to repeat his appeal for support of his own administration's 1959-61 budget, most of which, he says, "goes for schools, universities, hospitals, mental institutions, child-care centers, public protection, urban renewal, industrial development, public assistance, flood control and hundreds of other

Says Pesticide Peril To Humans

HARRISBURG (AP)—A pesticide (endrin) for destroying orchard mice can threaten human life if used carelessly, Dr. Charles L. Wilbar, state health secretary, warns.

He said Thursday that reports received by the department showed that the highly toxic substance—available commercially in concentrate, powder or dust form—has been entering streams, killing fish and livestock.

"Indiscriminate use of this poison means an ever-present threat to persons using water likely to be contaminated by spills or runoff containing the pesticide," he said.

or programs."

The governor complained that there are many lobbyists in Harrisburg working for such programs but never in his 30 years' association with the state government "have I heard of, or heard from, any lobbyist who is for any single, specific tax."

This was an extension of his campaign to win support of various organizations for taxes to finance his $1,700,000,000 budget for the 1959-61 biennium.

7 ASTRONAUTS SEE JUMP SPOT FOR SPACE TRIP

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — "Their reaction was silence — they watched in awe."

These were the first impressions of six of the seven Mercury astronauts Thursday when they were given their first look at the jump-off spot for the first manned flight into space.

The future spacemen made a driving tour of the Cape, but planned to follow this up Friday with a detailed visit to each of the launching pads for the giant U.S. ballistic missiles. The astronauts will wind up their brief trip Saturday.

No interviews were allowed, but the astronauts' escort officer, Lt. Col. John Powers, gave newsmen some of the highlights of their first reactions to the Cape.

Sometime in 1961 one of the seven will be fired into space aboard an Atlas intercontinental range ballistic missile.

"We'll see that one again," one of the group commented as their bus passed a huge tower housing the mighty Atlas.

The astronauts are Air Force Captains Leroy Cooper Jr., 32, Carbondale, Ohio; Donald Slayton, 35, Sparta, Wis.; and Virgil Grissom, 33, Mitchell, Ind.; Lt. Cmdr. Alan Shepard Jr., 35, East Gerry, N.H.; Lt. Cmdr. Walter Schirra Jr., 36, Hackensack, N.J.; and Lt.

Royal Couple Is Received By Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII received King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece in official audience Friday.

The visit was the first to the Vatican by a Greek monarch since 1439.

The King and Queen made their Malcolm Carpenter, 33, Garden Grove, Calif., of the Navy; and Marine Corps Lt. Col. John Glenn Jr., 37, New Concord, Ohio.

HOUSE PASSES DEMOCRATS' HOUSING BILL

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON (AP) — A walk-away victory by House Democrats in their battle for large-scale federal housing aids enhanced prospects today for other Democratic programs.

By a lustrous 261-160 vote Thursday, the House passed a Democratic-backed $2,100,000,000 housing bill after upsetting every Republican effort to whittle it down to administration size.

The result put Congress squarely at odds with President Eisenhower in the politically tinged battle over spending versus the balanced budget.

Goes To Conference
A more immediate result was to generate new steam behind proposals for a billion dollars of federal aid for local public works projects, and a quarter billion dollars of government loans and grants to assist depressed areas. House passage of the housing bill now sends it to conference with the Senate to compromise differences. The Senate earlier this session voted a $2,600,000,000 program.

Counting On Veto
Republicans were counting on a presidential veto if the bill sticks to present lines. None of Thursday's major votes gave the Democrats the two-thirds majority they would need to override a veto. Presidential displeasure appears certain to be centered on authority for continuing government-subsidized low-rent public housing.

President Eisenhower in his January message to Congress asked for an end to public housing. But the Senate voted to subsidize 45,000 new units, the House 140,000 new units over four years at the rate of $5,000 a year.

LORD ATTLEE IN CRASH

LONDON (AP) — Lord Attlee and his wife were involved in an auto crash Friday. Neither was hurt. Their car was wrecked.

The collision occurred not far from the spot where the Attlees' auto and a truck collided in February 1956. That time the former Laborite prime minister broke two ribs and Lady Attlee suffered a cut head.

53,000 Americans were injured in car-bicycle mishaps.

Corn Club Rules Changed; The Hints On Sheep Parasite Control, Cutworms Given Weeders Guide

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

There have been some important changes made in the rules of the Pennsylvania Corn Club for 1959.

This year in order to have his yield checked, the enrollee must agree to make a preliminary population check as directed by the county agent and report it on a form furnished by the county agent. A preliminary population check or a population check at harvest time showing less than 14,000 stalks per acre will disqualify the enrollee.

Frank S. Zettel

Also the corn club member having the highest yield shall be declared the "champion" for 1959 provided his yield is at least 3 bushels more than the next highest yield. However a "champion" will not be named if a 3-bushel differential does not exist. If a "champion" is named in 1959 he will not be eligible to compete again until 1965.

Parasites On Sheep
Sheep ticks (keds) are the most common external parasite found on sheep in Pennsylvania. The best time to control both sheep ticks and lice on sheep is a few days after shearing wounds have had time to heal. Since sheep keds migrate from ewes to lambs in the spring the entire flock should be treated. Young lambs that are heavily infested with ticks cannot grow and gain at a normal rate.

Dipping or spraying is better than dusting but it should be done on a warm day. When spraying hold the nozzle fairly close to the fleece of older lambs and use 50 pounds or more pressure to help drive the spray into the wool.

Sheep ticks can be controlled with DDT, lindane or rotenone. Use 4 to 8 pounds of DDT 50 per cent or 1 1/2 pounds of lindane 25 per cent wettable powder or 2 pounds of 4 to 5 per cent rotenone per 100 gallons. Use the smaller amounts when dipping and the higher amounts when spraying. When dusting use 10 per cent DDT or 2 per cent rotenone dust and brush into the fleece of older lambs. Dieldrin 1 1/2 per cent dust can be used if the animals are not slaughtered within 90 days.

Usually one application is sufficient for tick and lice control. Under heavy infestations a second application 10 to 14 days later may be advisable.

Cutworm Control

Cutworms take a heavy toll of flowers and vegetable plants each spring. Cutworms overwinter as partially mature worms in the ground, especially where sod or

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. (AP) — As sulphur-and-molasses is the old-fashioned traditional spring treatment for people, an early-spring treatment for soil is lime. And because it is a well-known, much respected improver of soil, a lot of lawns and gardens receive their annual dosage whether or not they need it.

Most people, including non-gardeners, know that the prime function of lime is to alkalize — or sweeten — acid soil. Many gardeners who administer an annual dose of lime assume that their soil is acid when a simple test would show that it is, on the contrary, already naturally and adequately supplied with calcium, which is what limestone is.

Most plants, however, grow and flourish in soil which is in the neutral range of acidity and alkalinity. Scientists have developed a scale by which to measure acidity. It is called a pH scale and runs from one — weeds are present. These plump, greasy-appearing caterpillars hide in the soil during the day and feed at night. They usually cut off plants near the ground level. Where only a few plants are involved cutworm damage may be prevented by wrapping the stems of the plants with paper as they are transplanted. Old magazine paper is suitable for this purpose. The paper should be about 4 inches wide so that 2 inches of the collar will be underground with 2 inches of the stem above ground being protected.

Where plants are already set some cutworm protection may be obtained by dusting the ground around the base of each plant. A 5 per cent DDT or chlordane or 2 1/2 per cent heptachlor dust may be used.

Commercial growers may obtain control by spraying infested fields 3 to 7 days before planting. Apply the spray after the field is plowed and leveled and then do not cultivate for at least 3 days. Use 3 pounds of 50 per cent DDT wettable powder or 3 quarts of 25 per cent DDT emulsion per acre. One quart of 2E heptachlor emulsion per acre also gives control.

Poison bran bait is effective but is somewhat difficult to prepare and distribute.

for complete acidity — to 14 — for complete alkalinity. Seven, of course, is neutral, and good growing soils range between five and nine.

Test Soil Sample

Sometimes symptoms of "sour" soil — moss and fungus growth for instance — may not be signs of extreme acidity at all. Before getting out and flinging lime around the lawn and garden beds, therefore, it is wise — and often work-saving — to test soil samples. Slips of litmus paper are easily obtainable in most drug stores. They come in red and blue colors. Take a small quantity of soil, moisten it, and slip some of the paper in a slit in the soil. If the blue paper turns red, the soil is acid; if the red paper turns blue, the soil is alkaline; if either paper turns purple, the soil is neutral. Gardeners with soil-testing sets have means for making more precise tests.

Even without testing, it is fairly easy to guess what kind of soil one has by looking around the neighborhood. If you see that there are many acid-loving trees and shrubs — rhododendron, laurel, azalea, evergreens and oak, for instance — growing healthily and happily, chances are the ground is on the acid side of the scale.

It is easier and cheaper to sweeten acid soil than it is to increase acidity in alkaline soil. The latter is best done by mulching and digging into the soil such acid-releasing materials as peat moss, oakleaf mold. Acid soil can be sweetened by working in lime — which is not expensive — spread at a rate of some 100 to 200 pounds to an area 50 feet square. Hydrated — powdered lime — works faster, but is more messy to handle. Agricultural lime, which is a coarser grind, does not cake or blow around, but works slower.

There probably is a great deal of unnecessary liming done every year, particularly by lawnowners and gardeners who live in large areas in the nation where much of the soil is underlaid with limestone, marble and some other rocks which contain much calcium. Acid soil, on the other hand, usually lies over such acid-producing rocks as granite, quartz, slate, shale and sandstone. In such cases, the struggle for so-called "sweet" soil is a steady one which requires annual applications of lime.

FATHER, 29, AND FOUR CHILDREN PERISH IN FIRE

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — Four small children and their father died Thursday night when flames raced through their home.

Robert Burk, 29, an unemployed dairy worker, was baby-sitting with the children while his wife, Joan, 26, was working as a waitress at a coffee shop.

"There was a noise like an explosion," said one neighbor, "and the place was in flames."

Neighbors tried to fight through the fire but were forced back. Firemen forced their way in behind fire hoses and pulled out Burk and the children.

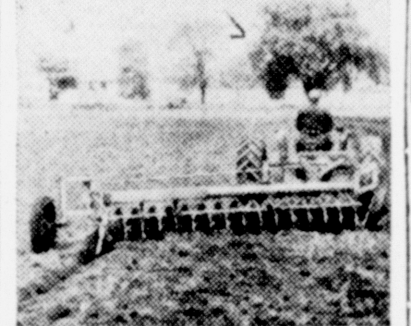

The father and a daughter, Barbara, 6, were pronounced dead at the scene. Tony, 7, Terry, 4, and Bobby Lynn, 2, were pronounced dead at nearby hospitals.

Wife Expects Baby
Fire Chief Lloyd Hopkins said he believed a cigarette started the fire in a living room couch. Burk's body was found nearby.

Neighbors summoned Mrs. Burk

are golden memories

given

everlasting life

Though made of marble or granite, and surrounded by peace and quiet beauty, no monument ever stands alone.

It speaks someone's love for someone lost as eloquently as though it had a voice. And it will for all time.

You will want such a memorial for your family. Symbolic in design, reverent in purpose.

We will gladly assist you in selecting one that will appropriately bespeak your sentiments.
